1 For coursework distributional requirements, please see the M.A. core requirements.

All doctoral students must pass two foreign language exams (one of these could have been taken as an M.A. student), submit a successful request for approval of doctoral exam topics, pass both the written and oral doctoral exams, successfully defend a dissertation proposal, and successfully defend a dissertation.

A total of thirty-three credit hours, after the M.A. degree, is required for the Ph.D. program. This involves seven courses (21 credit hours), including Methods of Research (ARTH692) if not previously taken; the final twelve credit hours will be Dissertation Research (ARTH899). For the direct Ph.D.--in which the M.A. degree is bypassed--the student must complete a total of fifty-seven credit hours, including Methods of Research (ARTH692) and fourteen other courses; the final twelve credit hours will be Dissertation Research (ARTH899). For coursework distributional requirements, see the department’s web page. A minimum grade of "B" is required for all courses approved for graduate credit. Two grades below "B" result in dismissal from the program.
