

HUMAN DEVELOPMENT (ONLINE), MASTER OF EDUCATION (M.ED.)

Non-thesis only: 30 credits required

This program is offered entirely online and can be taken from anywhere with stable internet access. Classes are held synchronously in the evenings in the EST time zone. This program does not offer Maryland State certification. In addition to the required coursework below, students must complete a scholarly paper. Please contact Program Director Dr. Lauren Trakhman trakhman@umd.edu or Graduate Program Coordinator Jannitta Graham jgraham7@umd.edu with any questions.

Course	Title	Credits
EDHD600	Introduction to Human Development and Child Study	3
EDHD662	Research Methods in Education Settings	3
EDHD751	Child Development and Poverty	3
EDHD703	Source Selection, Multimedia, & Misinformation: How Students Learn to Navigate Evidence in the 21st Century	3
EDHD720	Social Development and Socialization Processes	3
EDHD722	Learning Theory and the Educative Process	3
EDHD617	Achievement Motivation in Adolescence	3
EDHD635	Adolescents at Risk	3
EDHD674	Self Processes in Adolescence: Implications for Academic Achievement and School Adjustment	3
EDHD692	Cognitive Basis of Instruction	3
Total Credits		30

Seminar Paper

The University of Maryland and the College of Education require that students complete a Seminar Paper for fulfillment of M.Ed. Program requirements. This extra-curricular requirement is completed as an independent study experience, under the guidance of the program director and an assigned faculty paper advisor.