TEACHING AND LEARNING, POLICY AND LEADERSHIP (TLPL)

Graduate Degree Program
College: Education

Abstract
The TLPL Ph.D. program gives students a choice of six related specializations:

1. Education Policy and Leadership,
2. Language, Literacy and Social Inquiry,
3. Mathematics and Science Education,
4. Minority and Urban Education,
5. Teacher Education and Professional Development, and
6. Technology, Learning and Leadership.

These specializations prepare doctoral students to assume a variety of roles, including scholars, researchers, policy analysts, teacher educators, instructional specialists, curriculum developers, teachers, education leaders and advocates. They also provide students with new opportunities for interdisciplinary study that emphasize scholarship in critical areas of education research, including teacher preparation, STEM fields of education, literacy and language acquisition, education policy and leadership. For more details please visit http://www.education.umd.edu/TLPL/academics/programs.html.

This section includes information about the Ph.D. program sponsored by the Department of Teaching and Learning, Policy and Leadership (TLPL). For information about our master’s programs please see Teaching and Learning, Policy and Leadership (EDTL), and also Education: Curriculum and Instruction (EDCI).

Financial Assistance
The Department offers graduate assistantships to all newly admitted, full-time Ph.D. students. In addition, TLPL is able to award a limited number of Graduate School fellowships each year. These fellowships are awarded only to full-time graduate students. All Ph.D. applicants seeking to become full-time students will be considered for a fellowship—no additional application is needed.

Facilities and Special Resources
Faculty and students in the department work closely with area schools, colleges, universities, associations and other education-related organizations. Extensive resources in the Washington, D.C., area, including embassies and other international organizations, provide exceptional opportunities for internships and field experiences, research, and materials to enhance formal course experiences. Facilities that support graduate study include the Center for Mathematics Education, the Center for Science and Technology in Education, the Multilingual Research Center, and the Maryland Equity Project. Additional facilities in the College of Education include the Educational Technology Services Center.
