TEACHING AND LEARNING, POLICY AND LEADERSHIP (TLPL)

Graduate Degree Program
College: Education

Abstract
The TLPL Ph.D. program gives students a choice of six related specializations:

1. Education Policy and Leadership,
2. Language, Literacy and Social Inquiry,
3. Mathematics and Science Education,
4. Minority and Urban Education,
5. Teacher Education and Professional Development, and
6. Technology, Learning and Leadership.

These specializations prepare doctoral students to assume a variety of roles, including scholars, researchers, policy analysts, teacher educators, instructional specialists, curriculum developers, teachers, education leaders and advocates. The revision and consolidation of previous areas of study provides students with new opportunities for interdisciplinary study that emphasize scholarship in critical areas of education research, including teacher preparation, STEM fields of education, literacy and language acquisition, education policy and leadership. For more details about this program please visit http://www.education.umd.edu/TLPL/academics/programs.html.

Financial Assistance
The Department offers a limited number of graduate assistantships to newly admitted, full-time Ph.D. students each year. In addition to a possible graduate assistantship, TLPL is able to award a very limited number of Graduate School fellowships each year. These fellowships are awarded only to full-time graduate students and may provide tuition support and/or additional living stipends. All Ph.D. applicants who are offered full-time admissions will be considered for an assistantship and fellowship. For best consideration for fellowships, applicants should apply by the December 1st preferred deadline. For more information visit http://www.education.umd.edu/TLPL/admissions/financial.html.

Facilities and Special Resources

Faculty and students in the department work closely with area schools, colleges, universities, associations and other education-related organizations. Extensive resources in the Washington, D.C., area, including embassies and other international organizations, provide exceptional opportunities for internships and field experiences, research, and materials to enhance formal course experiences. Facilities that support graduate study include the Center for Mathematics Education, the Center for Science and Technology Education, the Multilingual Research Center, and the Maryland Equity Project. Additional facilities in the College of Education include the Educational Technology Services Center and numerous Professional Development Schools in local schools districts.
