What to Expect When Seeking Counseling Services

- Students seeking counseling/therapy will be assessed by a professional counselor to determine the best fit for their needs and our services.
- Following the initial assessment, students may be offered a number of services, such as group counseling, cognitive-behavioral workshops, or individual counseling. Short-term individual counseling is only offered when it is therapeutically appropriate and the best fit for a student's needs.
- During peak service times, students seeking individual counseling may need to wait for a counselor to become available. Limited student availability and requests for specific counselor preferences (race, gender, religion, etc.) may lead to longer wait times. At peak times during the semester, students may be referred to community providers.
- The Counseling Center, staffed by professional counselors, provides training opportunities for graduate level students. Some students may be assigned to work with one of our counselors-in-training. All trainees are under close supervision by an experienced counselor or licensed psychologist.
- The Counseling Service division works in close collaboration with the Behavioral Health Service (BHS) in the University Health Center. When therapeutically appropriate, students are referred to BHS for psychiatric or medication evaluations. The Counseling Center does not prescribe medication.
- The Counseling Center does not provide long-term treatment or highly specialized services such as behavioral analysis, neuropsychology, family therapy, hypnosis, or intensive treatment for eating disorders and chronic mental health conditions. Students with such needs may be referred to community providers.

Counseling Center Services

Group Counseling and Cognitive-Behavioral Workshops

The Counseling Center offers interpersonal psychotherapy groups and weekly theme-specific groups that address a variety of common issues, such as relationships, sexual assault, eating disorders, anxiety/stress, dissertation support, social identity, and stress management. Facilitated by psychologists and counselors, the typical therapy group size is six to eight students. Three (3) hour cognitive-behavioral workshops that teach basic coping skills for managing symptoms of depression and anxiety are also available.

Short-Term Personal and Psychological Counseling

You may be recommended to see a counselor for short-term individual counseling or couples counseling, or join one of the many counselor-led support groups.

Career Assessment and Counseling

Whether you are choosing a major, changing a major, or establishing career goals, it is important to understand how your personality, values, and interests relate to your future professional goals. If you are experiencing problems with choosing a major or career indecision, you can get help with this process at the Counseling Center.

Drop-In Hours

Unscheduled drop-in hours are available daily between the hours of 3 to 4 p.m. for students of color, LGBTQ students, student veterans, international students, and undocumented students.

Accessibility and Disability Service

The Accessibility and Disability Service (ADS) provides reasonable accommodations to qualified individuals to ensure equal access to services, programs, and activities sponsored by the University of Maryland. The ADS office is staffed by dedicated professionals who are available to assist, consult, support, and advocate on behalf of individuals requesting disability accommodations. Through the variety of services offered, we work to ensure that accommodation, and accessibility needs are met.

You are strongly encouraged to register early by completing a registration application located at adsonline.umd.edu (https://adsonline.umd.edu). Once completed, please call the ADS front desk at 301-314-7682 (voice and TTY) to schedule a registration appointment. For more information, students can email ADS at adsfrontdesk@umd.edu, visit the Accessibility and Disability Service on the Ground Floor of Shoemaker Building (0106 SMH), or view the ADS website (http://counseling.umd.edu/ads/).

Research Services

You can find more information about our research services on the Counseling Center's website: counseling.umd.edu/research (https://counseling.umd.edu/research/).
The Research Unit produces a variety of research briefs, publishes articles in professional journals, and presents study findings at conferences and to the University campus community. Design, implementation, and analyses of the biannual University New Student Census and the Withdrawal Survey are the Research Unit's primary responsibilities. Areas of research include: student development & retention; clinical service delivery; college students' basic needs (food & housing security), academic success, & well-being; as well as multiculturalism, inclusiveness, & action research.

Support for Parents of College Students counseling.umd.edu/cs/familyfriends/#consult (https://counseling.umd.edu/cs/familyfriends/#consult)

The Parent Warmline is a telephone consultation resource available to parents/guardians/family members concerned about their student's adjustment at college. Counselors help callers address a range of issues and concerns.

Testing Office
counseling.umd.edu/testing (https://counseling.umd.edu/testing/)

The Testing Office in the Counseling Center administers career and personality tests for counseling purposes, national standardized educational tests, such as the GRE, LSAT, PRAXIS, TOEFL, CLEP, DSST and Miller Analogies, and provides proctoring services to UMD students completing courses at other institutions via distance learning. UMD students completing UMD courses for which testing accommodations are needed should contact the Accessibility and Disability Service unit.
