

THEATRE MAJOR

Program Director: Maura Keefe, Ph.D.

Small classes, diversity, and a close-knit environment promote a strong sense of community within the Theatre major. An extensive production schedule offers students a myriad of opportunities to practice their craft.

A supportive and stimulating environment fosters creative development and spurs achievement. Our comprehensive curriculum embraces the liberal arts approach to theatre study and cultivates skills - discipline, creativity, self-confidence, and critical thinking - that are valuable in all career fields. Students gain a strong foundation in theatre arts and have the opportunity to tailor the degree to their strengths and interests.

Our performance and design/production faculty members are active in their fields (members of Actors Equity and United Scenic Artists), providing students a vital link to the world of professional theatre. Our history/theory faculty members regularly publish and participate at national and international conferences. Situated in close proximity to the vibrant Washington/Baltimore theatre communities, students have ready access to the best of contemporary and classical productions at more than 80 professional theatres. Through professional affiliations with many of these theatre companies, students enjoy unique opportunities such as internships, workshops, partnership projects, and blended productions.

An audition, portfolio, or interview is not required for admission to the program. Courses offered by this Department may be found under the following acronym(s): THET, TDPS, DANC, AASP, HONR, JAPN, JWST, WMST, ANTH.

Admission to the Major

An audition/portfolio is not required to become a Theatre major. For more information, contact the Director of Undergraduate Studies and Coordinator of Student Services Susan Miller at smille13@umd.edu.

Placement in Courses

Many theatre performance and production courses above the sophomore level require an audition, interview, and/or permission of the department.

Program Objectives

Our Mission

The University of Maryland School of Theatre, Dance, and Performance Studies advances and transforms the research and practice of theatre, dance, and performance studies through its commitment to excellence and innovative education in the performing arts.

Our Vision

We envision a school that serves as a national model for collaboration, innovation and entrepreneurship in the performing arts. The theatre program offers a balanced liberal arts education that integrates production, design, and scholarship. The B.A. in Theatre seeks to introduce students to the history, theory, and literature of theatre; to offer them insights into the cultural diversity that has shaped the creation of theatrical forms around the world; to allow them to develop their own aesthetic sensibilities and perspectives as an artist and audience member; and to offer them practical training in the areas of theatre craft, which ranges from design, to directing, and to performance.

Program Learning Outcomes

1. Students will be able to demonstrate fundamental knowledge of theatre performance, design, history, craft and literature analysis.
2. Students will be able to demonstrate critical and creative thinking skills and the ability to communicate with both written and spoken word and artistic vision.
3. Students will develop the ability to interpret and analyze dramatic texts with critical understanding of content and methodology.
4. Students will expand their awareness of the basic methods and principles for creating a dialogue between theory and practice.
5. Students will develop the ability to work effectively within a collaborative environment.

REQUIREMENTS

Requirements for the College of Arts and Humanities include a minimum of 3xx or 4xx level credits and the Global Engagement Requirement. Students in the Theatre major prior to the Fall 2009 semester should consult the unit for prior curriculum requirements.
